FRATERNITY

ADDRESS BY HENSLY G. HARRIS.

The following address was given by Mr. Hensley G. Harris at the Elks' memorial services Sunday.

Exalted Ruler, Brother Elks, Ladies and Gentlemen:—Benevolent, stately, and immaculate, there came at the mouth of the largest canyon in Pennsylvania, a flower that blooms perpetually, and notwithstanding the frigid blasts of winter and the withering heat of summer to which this region is subjected, retains its freshness and its bloom. Strange in its creation; poised in its vitality, and magnificent in its beauty; it has from time immemorial challenged the wonder and admiration of horticulturists, and botanists research stands amazed, for in the realm of that vast so-called magic can be gleaned that will account for its peculiar existence. Absorbent without effort, with no spot to the its purity, and sustained from vegetation, it stands amid its obscure and stony surroundings, reaching its graceful hand to God, as a result of love and peace. In its color and general outline, it resembles a lily, that sublime flower of the East, which toils not neither does it spin, but unlike the lily, its bloom flower proper is of a crystalline structure, whose surface is as smooth as polished as sculptured marble, attains so situated that all the sun and dust which finds its way in this mammoth cavern in the east to the sunlight of God passes on and around it, yet not one particle does it even the faintest speck, adheres to its surface. And like this flower, unsullied and unspotted by the quills and fawing hypocrites of this world, the character of our departed brother, Henry Lahr, who memory it has fallen my lot to recall this afternoon, stood a beacon light to the world, shining brightly and undimmed, as does the stately light-house standing along the shores of the fatigues deep, throw out its light to the lost and wandering mariners, who become shipwrecked upon its bosom.

In the prime of a vigorous manhood and at the climax of a successful career, at his home in Evansville, Ind., on the 21st day of July, 1897, Omnipotence, that prescient and all-wise ruler, who holds the destiny of earth and heaven at His command, stretched forth the awful hand of death and claimed him as its own; and amid the cries of friends and loved ones left behind, his spirit took its flight across the mystic vale of death to immortal eternity, there to join the myriad throngs of happy souls gone before, and to await the coming of all who must in their turn, follow him.

Of his boyhood life, we know not, but entering upon the threshold of life's young manhood he came to Paducah and cast his fortunes with her people. For nine years he lived amongst us, and in that time so would himself around the hearts of those with whom he came in contact, he won for himself their grateful love, their highest respect and their unflinching confidence.

A strong believer in Almighty God and the purifying influences of Christianity, in all the walks of his brief life he exemplified a practical religion deserving the strictest emulation. Brave and courageous in the face of every duty; devoted and loyal to the bonds of friendship; with a heart full of sympathy and love for his fellow-men, his hands were ever stretched out to the distressed and needy along life's pathway, and many were the heartaches he lushed and conscience, agonizing cries he stifled by his kind words and charitable deeds. Most and retiring when his own interests were at stake, he rushed into the lists where the welfare of others was concerned and proved himself a champion worthy of knightly steel.

But it was as an Elk that we, of that order, knew and loved him best. Early in his Paducah career he placed himself under our benevolent and protecting wing, and he the hum and jostle of his worldly affairs, he propagated and carried out the cardinal virtues and underlying principles of our lodge—Charity, Justice, and Brotherly Love. As a citizen we respected him; as a man we admired him, and as a brother we loved him. Then why should we not revere and honor a character so varied in its attributes, and one which wove around him a web of affection, not one thread of which can unweaving time or changing custom break. In truth and indeed, he hath left his footprints upon the sands of time, and we now pause to drop a tear before those portals he has lately entered to be seen by all things earthly no more forever. Such, briefly, were the virtues of Henry Lahr, which, as Elks, we inscribe upon the tablets of memory; his faults we write in sand.

My friends, there is an awe and pall incident to the dissolution of earthly ties that stiles conscience and bows the head of those who contemplate the awful moment. We are but bubbles on the great ocean of humanity that rolls and surges round about us. Born but to die, and standing in death's shadow waiting for its call, like the felon doomed before the executioner, too few of us shape our lives that when death comes, the grave is robbed of its victory and death its smart and sting. If we would leave behind a monument to endure the tread of time as does the rock and ancient hill, we should, as Bryant says, "So live that when the summons comes to join that innumerable caravan that moves to that mysterious realm where each shall take his chamber in the silent halls of death; then go not like the galley slave scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed by an unfeeling trust, approach thy grave like he who wraps the draperies of his couch around him and has down in peace to sleep."

WRITTEN AT RANDOM

"Say, have you seen the chainless safety?" asked Dr. P. H. Stewart yesterday, as a reporter tackled him for news.

"Yes," was the reply. "Oh, you mean you've seen the one that was at the Palmer House on exhibition. I mean have you seen the improved chainless safety?"

"Nope, haven't seen it. What does it look like?"

"Here it is," rejoined the doctor, yelling victoriously, as he raised the bottom of his vest, displayed a big brass safety-pin and telephoned for somebody else to come and get his vest.

Depot baggage agents have all kinds of troubles, but one of their greatest annoyances is that of people who come in after baggage without a check, claiming that they were given no check wherever their trunk was put aboard, or who have lost their check and refuse to pay for it.

Yesterday a stranger walked into the baggage room at the union depot, identified some baggage and declared he had been given no check.

"Well, sign this book, pay a quarter for the check, and you can get your baggage," he was told.

"I'll be d—d if I pay any quarter for a check I didn't get," he hotly declared, becoming very indignant. "I'll bring suit, sir, against your d—d old company!"

"You'd better go outside and think it over awhile," advised the agent, who, after scanning by several years of experience how to keep his cool. "You're mad now, and aren't acting like a sensible man. If your check turns up in the hands of any of the company's employees, your quarter will be returned, and if it doesn't that will be conclusive proof that you lost it yourself."

The man raved and tore, but while he was pacing the floor with his hands in his pockets he suddenly changed in his demeanor, and in a better humor agreed to sign the book and pay for the check, which he did.

"That man's found his check," commented the agent as the dramatic walked out. In about five minutes a boy came in and handed the agent the missing check, which he gave him, after swearing he had lost it at the depot to leave on a baggage train, and was very proper in his apologies to the agent.

A lady went in not long ago and asked she had received no check when she had her trunk checked, and so confident of it she became maliciously angry, and gave the agent a piece of her mind. He suggested several times that she look in her trunk book, but she repeatedly refused, declaring that she knew what she was talking about. Finally she asked him to pay for having the trunk checked to town, and there was the case right on top. It was with a very bad feeling that she handed it to the agent. And he didn't even say "I told you so."

As the first of the year approaches rumors are rife in regard to many changes which are said will take place in our various branches of business, and in various circles. As usual, most of the rumors are denied. One of the most interesting of these rumors is that one of Paducah's oldest and largest manufacturing firms will cease to exist under the present name and firm at least, by January 1.

John D. L. Sanders joyfully says that other officials around the city had paint, repair and refurnish their offices every few months and nobody comments on it, but because he lives up his office a little all the papers have to notice it, and all he needs remark on it as if he had never had a decent, looking sanctum before. The true reason is, however, that the judge's office has been moved up in such an unusually artistic and attractive style that nobody can help noticing it.

Miss Lowe, the attractive young lady from Metropolis who plays the accompaniment for "Myrtle," is said by Fred Dadsell, the director, who has had years of experience in all parts of the country and among the best musicians in the country, to be the best accompanist he ever met anywhere. Miss Lowe's musical ability is surpassed only by her beauty and charming personality, and Paducahans will always be grateful to her for her services on this occasion.

Marshal Collins' suggestion relative to the Curlew law seems to meet with general approbation, but the principal doubt is relative to the practicability of enforcing it. The question is one that has already been agitated in a great many cities, is now being agitated in others, and will doubtless be agitated in many more before the close of the century. Some people claim such a law is restricting personal liberty and contrary to the constitution, while others say it is so let's do away with "personal liberty" and amend the constitution in this particular instance, at least, as the result would fully justify both.

Judge Sanders said in open court this morning that such a law would be hard to enforce, and it doubtless would be. The police complained when the cow law was passed, because they said they had more than they could do to attend to the other duties, without chasing cows, and boys are much harder to catch than cows.

The world at large is hereby called to recognize the fact that Graves county man, as refused a drink of whiskey. He was so emphatic in his refusal yesterday at a local wagon yard that he was fought to vindicate his objection, and sank down in legions of mud, with a beautifully vomited proboscis.

The more you drink, the more you want. A Graves county man would never refuse a drink—unless in Graves county, where the quality of the liquor might justify a refusal.

GAGE'S NEW PLAN.

How He Expects To Alter the Currency System.

Indorsed By McKinley—H. Deans With the Retirement of the Gold Notes.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The annual report of the secretary of the treasury, sent to congress, shows that the total receipts for the year ending June 30, 1897, were $430,378,167 and the expenditures $418,439,622, leaving a deficit for the year of $11,938,545. The receipts for the year, however, exceeded those for the year 1895 by $20,911,759. The customs, it is shown, yielded $176,554,126, and internal revenue sources $116,688,571. As compared with 1896 this is an increase in the customs of $10,532,371, and in internal revenue $1,312,721. The secretary, at some length, argues the need of a reform in the currency, and, in conclusion, recommends the enactment of legislation establishing a department of the treasury to be designated as the issue and redemption division, in which is to be deposited $125,000,000 in gold to be used only for redemption purposes, and all silver now held in the treasury for redemption purposes, and also all silver bought under the act of 1890.

He further recommends that the sum of $200,000,000 in United States legal tender notes be also deposited in this division, to be disbursed therefrom only upon the receipt of gold. It is also recommended that provision be made for the issue of refunding loan ten-year 2½ per cent. bonds, payable in gold, in exchange for any part or all of the outstanding loans of the United States.

The secretary also recommends that national banks be authorized with a minimum capital of $25,000 in places having a population of 2,000 or less, and that the rate of taxation on circulating notes secured by deposit of bonds be reduced to one-half of one per cent. per annum; also that banks be permitted to issue circulating notes to the par value of the refunding bonds deposited by them in the treasury, greenbacks, treasury notes or silver certificates to a total amount of the $200,000,000 against which national bank notes shall be issued to them to an equal amount. After the banks have deposited such bonds, greenbacks, Treasury notes and silver certificates to the amount of 50 per cent. of their capital they shall be permitted to issue bank notes, in addition to the 50 per cent. thus provided, to the extent of 25 per cent. for which the banks' assets shall be liable. He also recommends that the guarantee of payment by the Government be extended to all circulating notes of the bank, whether issued against deposited security or against assets. To secure the Government against loss, if any, a tax of 2 per cent. should be levied on unsecured circulation to create a safety fund, to be invested by the Controller in United States bonds. In addition, the Government should be further protected, the secretary says, by having first lien upon all assets in case of failure of the issuing bank. It is further recommended that all notes be redeemed in the city of New York and at other subtreasuries at the expense of the banks, and that the issue of National bank notes be restricted to the denomination of $10 and upwards.

We have had just enough snow to let us know that such a thing could fall in this part of the country, and, too, as a prelude to what we may expect before a great while.

Mr. Oscar Wind is reported to be sick. Of the $260,000 to be paid the teachers of the state Saturday, $50,000 of it goes to the Louisville teachers.

The "missing letter" contests that have been used by a number of papers for the purpose of increasing "their circulation," and for the purpose of fleecing the people, have been declared fraudulent, and such papers and advertisements are no longer permitted to go through the mails.

"High Teas" are getting to be monotonous. It has come to a pass that almost any ordinary money-making affair like a festival or supper, is called a "high tea." And the public is often called upon, under some big, very-sounding name to attend some very tame and ordinary affair. This is all wrong. Let us tell the people the truth and save them the trouble of discovering our deception. No people can reach their highest development when their social natures are neglected. If we were called upon to name the weakest element of our race, we would point to our social rather than to our moral or spiritual life. Change our social, and you change our moral life, and make possible the highest religious attainments.

A letter was received yesterday containing some items for this column, but they will not be printed for the simple reason that there was no signature to it. When writing to this department please sign your full name, not that we will print it, but as an evidence of good faith.

Every one is wondering why it is that we are having hard times. One solution of it, is just as easy as rolling off a log. We make a little money in our business and immediately rent a house sixteen times larger than we need. Our wives and daughters must have a sea-skin sapphire big enough to utilize as a crazy quilt and at Christmas time we present our friends with diamonds and much the same. Presently business begins to drop off, but the diamonds and gold hang on just the same. It would never do to economize in our domestic affairs, of course not. Why Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so would talk and turn up their noses at our impetuosity? We must continue to make a bluff before the world. If we starve when alone we must feast when company is around. We continue to pile on the agony: run up the bills; stand off the grocer; apologize to the milkman; run around the corner when the collector comes, and then go down town and begin whining about hard times.

The men who built up this country were content to live within their incomes. Their sons did not begin where they left off. When their daughters married they did not bestow their hearts and hands upon some brainless idiot. Of course the times are hard! Why should they not be? It's a wonder our clocks don't weigh a ton and our watches a hundred weight. Keep it up, and when we get tired we'll go and blow our brains out in despair, but for heaven's sake let us quit grandstanding and grunting about what we sometimes bring upon our own heads. "What other people say" makes moral cowards of us. We try to onto one another and get lost in the shuffle. We lead moral lives and die moral deaths. Many a man would count smelt tonight were it not for the fact that he had promised his wife he would live and keep up the bluff with her as long as he could. We live in a whirl from January to December. We scheme and squabble and argue about things that do us no good whatever, until old Father Time gives us a slash with his scythe, and then the "other people" will say, "We told you so!" What else could we expect? Let us "take a tumble" to ourselves ere it is too late, for we can never say in the hereafter that we have not been sufficiently warned.

PERSONALS.

Hon. Wm. Reed went up to Eddyville this morning.

There will be regular service at Temple Israel at 7:30 tonight.

Col. John Sontag returned to his home in Evansville this morning.

Mrs. Addie Nolen, of Fulton, is visiting Mrs. Lining, at Fifth and Jefferson streets.

Mrs. B. H. Thomas and sister, Miss Grace Argus, are guests of Miss Mary Cloyes, at Mayfield.

Mr. Sam Quisenberry returned this morning from Dyersburg. Mrs. Quisenberry will remain there a few days longer.

Miss Edith Lam, of Greenville, Tenn., returned home yesterday afternoon, accompanied by Councilman Edles' two little children, Edie and Annie.

The Wooden Shoe Exchange Club met last night with Mr. and Mrs. Capt. Kraus. The first prize was won by Mrs. C. E. Griddle and the other by Mrs. E. W. Beckman.

THE COURTS.

Pinckney Childers is on trial in the circuit court today on a charge of grand larceny. He was arrested several months ago for stealing $600 from Wm. Rommel while the latter was drunk. He and Rommel and others were out drinking together, and Childers was the last one seen with him. Rommel missed his money and Childers was detected in the act of spending money of the same denomination. He was arrested, tried and held over, and being unable to give bond, has been in jail all this time. He is about 16 years old, and comes from a well-known family.

The Illinois Central nuisance case was before the circuit court yesterday in favor of the defense, and the prosecution took an appeal. The charge was making the track too steep at Florence Station, thereby obstructing the road.

Winn Scott, colored, pleaded guilty to petty larceny and was sentenced to one month in jail.

The case against Will Skelton, colored, charged with being implicated in the burglary of Mrs. Irene Cox's residence, some time ago, for which John L. Johnson, colored, was sentenced for eight years, was dismissed.

The petty larceny case against Pinckney Childers was continued. The case against Fred Conners, for maliciously assaulting Will Aday, was left open until Monday.

Joseph and J. H. Hallinan, charged with stealing wheat from George T. Alliston, of Bayou Mills, Livingston county, were indicted for grand larceny.

Bleey Boyd, colored, was indicted for malicious assault.

POLICE COURT PICKINGS.

John Sweeney, a boy about 16 years of age, was charged with sleeping in N. C. & St. L. cars. He said he had the permission of the car cleaner. He was also charged with cutting another boy named Joe Williams, but the witnesses said Williams accidentally cut himself by striking the knife, which was in the other boy's hand. Sweeney was dismissed with a reprimand.

Thomas Reeves was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness.

Rice Miller, colored, was charged with a breach of the peace. The case was continued until tomorrow. Miller is charged with whipping his wife, and the two principal witnesses have disappeared.

GRAVES COUNTY VICTIMS.

George Davenport and D. W. Carney, of Pottsville, Graves county, were in the police court this morning charged with engaging in a mutual fight at Potter's wagon yard about noon yesterday. Carney was fined $1 and costs for a breach of the peace. The evidence showed that Davenport wanted Carney to drink and he refused, whereupon they began to fight. Davenport knocked Carney against a buggy wheel and he was unconscious for five minutes or more.

Officers Smalley and Wheeler gave chase in a buggy and overtook them out on West Broadway. Davenport was fined $5 and costs.

Saturday evening at the Campbell building, on Broadway, there will be a building a church social which will be a drawing of a large crowd, both on account of its own merits and for the object of it. Oysters, ices and other good things to eat will be served in abundance from 5 until 10 o'clock. Supper 25c, ices 10c, extra. Come one, come all and help a good cause.

PADUCAH BOY BURIED.

Had Two of His Horses Cut Off.

Ex-Officer Jeff Barnhart received the news today that his son, Mr. Claude Barnhart, who has been working in a saw mill in Memphis, had cut off two of the fingers on his right hand, and so badly injured the thumb that it will have to be amputated at once.

STOLEN LOGS.

Will Hamilton, a son of Mrs. Charity, who is well-known as a shanty-boater here, was warranted yesterday on a charge of stealing a raft of logs from F. A. Bivens, of Alton, Missouri county.

Wm. J. Bryan used to think that there was a bond between wheat and silver that caused both to fluctuate approximately together. That theory has been exploded and is now dead even to talk about. Wm. J. Bryan, who is now in the penitentiary, was in 1892

Boiler maker Henry Leonard is putting a new flue in the boiler of the steamer Monie Baner and otherwise repairing it.

The City of Chattanooga did not succeed in getting her tow of ties to St. Louis, but unloaded them at Grand Tower instead.

There was very little business transacted on the levee this morning, and everything in that vicinity was very quiet.

The City of Paducah and City of Shilfield are both hard ground in the Mississippi, which continues to fall rapidly.

SOMETHING NEW

About December 8 or to we will introduce something new, in the drug or any other line, to the people of Paducah.

LOOK FOR IT

We can hardly keep from giving it away, but the next week we will almost give it away. You want to come around if you wish to be pleased and delighted—and it will please and delight old and young, rich and poor.

IN THE MEANTIME

If you are hoarse and have a tickling in the throat, try a box of throat's Cough Drops. A stranger bought a box, and they did him so much good that before leaving town he came around and bought several boxes. He wanted something to remember the town by, and they were the best things he found in the city. When you buy a bottle of Fine-Tar-Honey, include a box of throat's Cough Drops. They are not like confectioners' drops, but will do you good—tastes good, too.

UNHAPPY OWEN.

His Watch Caused Him To Hit Lizzie Lewis.

Will Be A Prisoner About Seven Months As a Result.

Clarence Owen, colored, was charged with carrying concealed a deadly weapon when Judge Sanders opened court this morning, and pleaded not guilty. Lizzie Lewis, colored, was in court with her head bound up. She said Owen came in her home and after a few words drew a pistol from his inside coat pocket and struck her on the top of the head. After the blow she had to leave two bones removed from her head. She led the bones wrapped in a piece of paper in her pocket.

The woman's testimony was corroborated by several other witnesses.

Owen claimed the woman shoved him and attempted to strike him with a bottle, and that he had her wrist in such a manner that when her arm came around she hit herself on the head with the bottle. He said he had no pistol, that it was a bottle.

Owen was fined $100 and fifty days in the county jail for a breach of the peace, and $50 and twenty days in jail for carrying concealed a deadly weapon.

Judge Sanders said in addition that it was obvious Owen had sworn falsely, and he was fortunate to escape the penitentiary.

Owen was a most dejected looking slacker when he heard the judgment, and sank back with a look of the blankest amazement on his countenance.

His imprisonment will be about five months on the chain-gang, and two months in jail.

"MYCALE" LAST NIGHT.

"Mycale, the Greek Sorcerer," was presented last night at Morton's Opera House for the benefit of the Home of the Friendless to a fairly good crowd, under the direction of Prof. Cyril Dawsell. The production was by local talent, and taking everything into consideration was very creditable.

Mrs. James Weille, one of Paducah's best and most popular singers, whose charming voice had not been heard here for some time, won merit as "Mycale."

Mr. Dawsell, the star of the production, also made a fine showing. The production was by local talent, and taking everything into consideration was very creditable.

JOHN J. DORIAN.

CURED OF BLOOD POISON AFTER FIFTY-TWO DOCTORS FAILED.

Food Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

GENTLEMEN:—In 1872 a small pimple broke out on my leg. It began eating and in four months I was treated by a physician of Paducah county, Ala., where I lived eight years. He relieved it for a short while. In six weeks it broke out again in both legs, also on my shoulder. The small houses were taken out. It continued until 1878. At this time I had twelve different physicians. They told me the only remedy was amputation; that it could never be cured. For six months I could not walk a step. I went to Mineral Wells, Texas, spent $200.00, came home; went to Hot Springs, Ark., still nine months—all failed to cure me. In 1887 I came back to Birmingham, Ala. I was advised to write you, which I did. I wrote you that B. B. B. would come here, and I could get the medicine from Nabors & Morrow, Birmingham, of our city. I bought ten bottles and before I had finished my fifth bottle my legs began to heal, and in less than two months I was sound and well. That has been nearly twenty years ago, and no sign of its return yet. I have spent in cash over $100.00, and B. B. B. does the work that all the rest failed to do. You have my permission to publish this. I have traveled so much trying to get well that my cure is well known. Fifty-two doctors have treated me in the last 17 years. All they did was to take what money I had, and done me no good. I am now a well man.
